

COMPARING THE VIEWS OF DAVID WALKER AND JOHN DAY, TWO NINETEENTH-CENTURY FREE BLACKS
ASSESSMENT

David Walker

John Day

Four horizontal lines for writing.

Four horizontal lines for writing.

Support for their idea:

Four horizontal lines for writing.

Four horizontal lines for writing.

Support for their idea:

Four horizontal lines for writing.

Teachers may use and reproduce the material on the Crafting Freedom website for instructional purposes.

COMPARING THE VIEWS OF DAVID WALKER AND JOHN DAY, TWO NINETEENTH-CENTURY FREE BLACKS

ASSESSMENT KEY (Answers may vary)

David Walker

How they are alike

John Day

Both were free born black men, educated, and devout Christians. Both believed slavery was inhumane and evil. Both were devoted to improving the lives of African Americans.

How they are different

Walker felt African Americans should stay in the United States.

Support for their idea:

Because he believed that equality and freedom were the birthright of all Americans regardless of race.

Because he believed all African Americans should fight for their freedom.

Day felt African Americans should immigrate to Liberia.

Support for their idea:

He believed: colonization was a scheme to rid the country of free blacks; in Liberia, unlike America, blacks could be free and equal citizens; free blacks' attempts to abolish slavery in America hadn't worked.